HOPES AND FEARS.

Our hopes are like the wreaths of foam
That glitter on each shining wave,
When with a gliding sound they come,
The white and silvery beach to love.

The waters part, the ripples gleam
A moment on the silent shore,
And vanish, as the hopes that seem
A moment bright, and are no more.

Seeking for love, for fame, for power,
To the frail threads of life we cling,
For hope still cult a withered flower,
And tugs a harp with broken string,

And hope will shed a glistening ray
Of light on pleasure's ruined shrine,

For mouldering columns still look gay
When brilliant sunbeams o'er them shine.

Though severed by love's magic chain,
Still to its broken charms we trust,

And hope to mend the links again,

Pray as has eaten them with rust.

Pray as the bubbles on the beach

That hope may be—a transient beam,

But rest of joy, "is sweet to teach

The heart to beth the grief and dream.

Our hopes are like the flowers that bloom
Upon the mountain's verdant side,

That mountain's heart a burning tomb,

Cleft by the lava's scorching tide.

They spring and flourish, fade and die,

Like human hopes—as frail and fair,

White gaudyless fires beneath them lie,

Like human passions hidden there.

Our fears are like the clouds that shed

Their gloom across a summer sky;

When life is fairest, some will dread

Of grief is hovering nigh.

The gloom may pass—the shadows fade,

And sunlight only seem to reign,

But still there is a lingering shade,

A fear that clouds will come again.

Where the bright wells of gladness spring,

Hope will the joyful heart destroy,

But fear is hovering there, to fling

A shadow o'er the path of joy.

A cancer-worm within the fruit,

A serpent in the linet's nest,

A fear that clouds will come again.

We seek the laurel wreath of fame,

And all her tickle favors trust,

To live—perilous without a name,

And find the chapter turned to dust,

Life wears away, "mid smiles and tears—

The weeping peal, the funeral toll;

But though overshadowed still by fear,

Hope is the sunlight of the soul.

GOD'S BLESSING ON THEM.

BY CHARLES WILTON.

God's blessing on them!—those old salts

Who batt'd hard and long;

Who clef't in twain a stubborn chain,

And conquered might and wrong!

O Time! reverse their sanctu;

Not let their glory cease;

For by a mortal victory

They sealed Immortal peace.

God's blessing on them!—those stout hearts,

In these advancing days,

Who seek to guide the progress strik;

From error's countless ways!

Or be their track a track of light,

The onward march of man;

The way to shape our steps aright—

The good to lead the van.

God's blessing on them!—one and all,

Of every rank and clime,

Who strive to aid the stern crusade

Against the growth of crime!

Or be their names a rallying cry

For ages yet to come;

A word whose echoes shall not die

Till Nature's self be dumb.

THE BRIDEGLROOM COMETH.

Behold! the Bridegroom is returning!

Rise, trim your lamps and buring!

The final hour is nigh;

Watch! 't will approach with stealthy creeping!

Watch! lest it come and find you sleeping!

Watch! lest it leave you wailing, weeping—

Dying, yet ne'er to die!

When ye shall hear the trumpet's warning!

Then they shall live who died;

They who his palmy pathway cleared,

Who praised His glory while 'twas shrouded,

Then behind His side, unclosed,—

And they who pierced His side!

Then shall hear a loud lamenting—

The woe of men too late repenting;

These shall be left to mourn—

The power that rent in twain the Temple,

Shall cause the earth and heaven to tremble,—

But lo! the Lord shall then assemble

His Ransom'd and First-born!

Half a day of triumph long awaited!

Half a day that brings the Great Anointed!

Yield, flock, rejoice!

Redemption down with His appearing!

Let up your heads—the hour is nrowing!

Elect! lift up your voice!

How to MAKE YELLOW BUTTER.—To

cream sufficient for ten pounds of butter, tak two good sized Orange carrots, wash them clean, and grate off the outside, (or that portion which contains the coloring matter); then pour a pint of warm water to it, and let it stand a short time to soak;

then strain the whole through a linen or cotton cloth, squeezing out the juice, which is to be put into the cream and churned together. More or less of the carrot may be used, as persons may wish to have their butter of a deeper or lighter color, and some carrots afford more coloring matter than others.

Young man be kind to the poor!

If you die a beggar, have not the bitter remorse in your dying hour that your sin has recoiled upon your own head!

The old man ceased speaking, and motioned to Edward to retreat; but after much persusion and assurance of friendship, the beggar was induced to continue his history.

And to that trifling circumstance are you indebted for this destitution in your old age!" continued Edward.

I foolishly bought him a toy hatchet, with which he inflicted a severe wound on his right foot. That scar he will probably carry to his grave."

"Was it like this?" said Edward, quickly, exposing his foot, and exhibiting the unquestionable trace of a deep wound be of use to you?"

"Your name?" said the old man, nervously.

"Edward Herman Mercer."

"My son!" whispered the beggar, as he fell exhausted to the ground.

It was reared upon the lap of luxury.

My father was prosperous in business, and spared no expense in educating myself and my only brother. He afforded us ample means to establish ourselves in business when we became of age. My brother chose the seafaring life, and I the mercantile business. For many years, he commanded a fine ship from this port

but he never returned from his last voyage, to my knowledge. The ship was wrecked and none returned to tell the story. After

I was fairly established in business, my father failed, and became a bankrupt.—

The change and disappointment wrought deeply upon his spirits; his health failed gradually from that time, and in two years afterwards he died. My mother survived him but a few months, and I was left with no relative in the world, save my wife, to whom I had been married some two years, and my little son, then an infant.

With the hand of fortune could scarcely be expected to do worse than this.

As soon as he had partially recovered from the shock, Edward provided conveyance and removed his father to his own residence.

"O, carry me not there!" earnestly spoke the old man, as they entered the gate, leading to the beautiful residence which he had entered but a few hours ago

a beggar. "Let me entreat you, my son, not to expose your beggarred father here!

It will prove your ruin!"

"Then so be it!" proudly answered the bold youth. "My father's lot is mine,

XIV CONGRESS.—1st Session.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23. A bill was passed establishing Young Men's Library in the District of Columbia, and adjourned after receiving negative documents relative to Indian tribes, and passing a few bills of little real importance.

House.—Daniel Waldo, a revolutionary soldier, 94 years old, who has been a congregational clergyman for 70 years, selected Chaplain.

The House concurred with the Senate in the appointment of Regents of the Washington Institute.

Among bills introduced, was one for the construction of a railroad and telegraph to the Pacific.

Adjourned.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.

SENATE.—The Chair laid before the Senate a communication from the Secretary of the Navy, in answer to a resolution, transmitting a copy of the report of the Naval Board, and stating that it was not accompanied by any journal, record, or other papers, and further, that the causes of retirement were not made known to the department.

Mr. Mallory, from the Naval Committee, introduced a bill to amend the act to promote the efficiency of the Navy.

Mr. Mason submitted a resolution respecting the President, if not incompatible with the public interest, to communicate to the Senate all correspondence which has taken place between this government and Great Britain regarding the enlistment of soldiers in the United States serve in the British army, accompanied such evidence and documents as the President may deem proper; to show the connection of the agents or officers of the British government with this violation of our laws and national rights.

Gen. Cass concurred in the call for the correspondence, as it would amply justify the administration. He charged that Lord Clarendon's statements were utterly contrary to the facts. He thought Great Britain had palpably violated the neutrality laws.

The debate was continued by Messrs. Toucey, Rusk, and James of Rhode Island, when Mr. Mason's resolution was adopted.

On motion, the consideration of the President's special Kansas message was resumed.

Mr. Jones, of Tenn., made a speech charging all the troubles in Kansas to the morbid and unpatriotic opposition made to the extension of Slavery. When he had concluded the Senate adjourned.

House.—On motion of Mr. Thorington, of Iowa, the Military Committee was instructed to inquire into the expediency of establishing a military academy and school of practice in the valley of the Mississippi.

Mr. Orr made an ineffectual effort to introduce a resolution instructing the Committee on Naval Affairs to inquire into the expediency of constructing fifteen additional frigates. No quorum. Adjourned.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26. A bill was introduced by Mr. Hunter reported a bill making appropriations for the payment of invalid and other pensions for the year ending June, 1857.

Mr. Mallory, from the Naval Committee, reported a bill authorizing the construction of ten sloops-of-war, and would its consideration on Monday.

The following bills were passed:

The laws relative to pilots on steam-boats, and especially the act of 1852 shall not be construed as to affect, annul or impair the force or validity of State laws regulating pilotage in its ports, harbors, or over a bar at the mouths of rivers, or such waters as are within the territorial jurisdiction of such State.

A bill was also passed authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to permit the owner of any vessel, to change the name of the same on the presentation of sufficient reasons therefor.

Adjourned.

HOUSE.—The Speaker nominated as Regent of the Smithsonian Institute on the part of the House, Messrs. Meacham, Warner and English.

Mr. Campbell, of Ohio, from the Committee of Ways and Means, reported bills to supply deficiencies in the appropriations for the support of the Military Academy, and for the payment of invalid and other pensions.

The Speaker laid before the House a message from the President, transmitting and recommending to the favorable consideration of Congress the communication from the Secretary of War, dated February 25th, asking for an appropriation of $3,000,000 for the purpose of applying the improvements recently made to arms and munitions of war.

A debate ensued, and without concluding, the House adjourned.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.

SENATE.—The joint committee on real estate, reported the petition of the Indian commissioner to legalize sale of real estate, with a recommendation, which was passed.

The report of the commissioners of shell fisheries relative to the purchase of a boat, was read and a resolution providing for the necessary expenses was read and passed.

The House resolution authorizing the General Treasurer to receive a portion of the Bank tax due next June, on the first of March, deducting interest and exchange, was passed in concurrence.

The bill to carry into effect a former appropriation of $5000 for the erection of a pier on Block Island, was passed in concurrence, by a very close vote. It is understood that the citizens of New Shoreham have subscribed the additional sum of $200, as contemplated in the original bill, to be used for the purpose named.

The act in amendment of the act in relation to Foreign Insurance companies, was read and passed in concurrence.

The act in amendment of the several acts regulating Courts of Probate, read and passed in concurrence.

The petition of the Mount Vernon Bank in Providence to have bonds remitted, was read and granted in concurrence.

Adjourned.

HOUSE.—The discussion on referring the message of the President recommending the appropriation of $3,000,000 to increase the efficiency of the military, was resumed.

Mr. Quinton said there was nothing in the message ominous of war, as had been stated, though in his opinion there was a possibility if not probability of war.—England could not engage in a war with this country without involving her kingdom, 3,000,000 of her subjects being dependent on one only of our products—cotton.

The message was referred to the military committee. Adjourned.

MEMORANDA.

A GOOD RULE.—A man who is very rich now was very poor when he was a boy. When asked how he got his riches, he replied:—"My father taught me never to play till my work was finished, and never to spend my money until I had earned it. If I had but one hour's work in a day, I must do that the first thing, and in an hour—and after this I was allowed to play; and then could play with much more pleasure than if I had the thought of an unfinished task before my mind." I early formed the habit of doing everything in time, and it soon became perfectly easy to do so. It is to this I owe my prosperity." Let every boy who reads this go and do likewise.

DISCIPLINE IN CHILDHOOD.—Some old writer who knows pretty well what he is talking about, says that he is firmly persuaded that indulgence infallibly produces selfishness and hardness of heart, and that nothing but a pretty severe discipline and control can lay the foundation of a magnanimous character.

The petition was read, but before any action was taken, the House adjourned.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

PROVIDENCE, Thursday, Feb. 21.

SENATE.—Mr. Price called up the report of the joint committee on executive communications, on claims for French publications, which was read and the resolutions of the House were concurred in.

TIMELY HINTS TO ALL.

How many have lost a father, a mother, a sister, a brother, or an innocent little Prattling child—and have not even the shadow of a resemblance to look upon. After the separation some little toy or a trifling article of apparel, often is kept for years, and cherished as a token of remembrance how much more valuable would be one of Williams' perfect Daguerreotype signatures of the "loveliest and lost."

Reader, perhaps you cannot do a better thing than to let your mind is upon the subject, than take hours to think over it with yourself, or with your family, or your friends, and visit the only artist in our town, and if not now, you may at some future period have reason to feel grateful for these "gentle hints."
